

Climate Action Summit

Presented by GreenAllies and the Delaware Valley Green Building Council

Funded by a grant from
Climate and Urban Systems Partnership (CUSP) at the Franklin Institute

A two-day leadership summit for college students interested in becoming a climate change mentor for a school in their community

July 22-23,
2016

Join fellow students who share a passion for engaging others in climate change issues for a two-day Climate Action training session! Learn how to inspire and motivate younger students to initiate projects that prepare our communities for a hotter, wetter climate.

All participants will become part of Delaware Valley Green Building Council's Green Schools Initiative by serving as MENTORS for local schools and/or Philadelphia School District schools.

Location: John Heinz National Wildlife Refuge, Philadelphia, PA
Overnight accommodations available at Fairmont Park Youth Hostel

Date: Friday, July 22nd (1pm-7pm) to Saturday, July 23rd (10am-3pm)

Cost: FREE for college students from Philadelphia region colleges ($18/student for other schools)

Workshops:

- Climate Change Update: The New Science and Discoveries
- Best Practices in Developing Student-Led Projects
- Direct Action Techniques on Climate Change
- Toolkit for Navigating the School System
- Energy Efficiency and Alternative Energy Initiatives
- How to Talk About Climate Change
- Green Schools Overview and Eco-Schools USA Framework

Ready to Register?

This QR code will take you to the registration form

Our Partners:

SPARC, Clean Air Council, PennEnvironment, National Wildlife Federation, Villanova University, US Fish and Wildlife Service, School District of Philadelphia

Questions about the conference? Contact us at ken@green-allies.org

powered by

